

Our GERT Suit Experience Day

This interactive training gives carers and healthcare professionals an insight into what it's like to live in an ageing body.

Using the specially-developed GERT suit delegates explore how an older person, or someone living with dementia, experiences and responds to the world around them.

During the course delegates will:

- experience some of the effects on their vision, hearing, mobility and coordination that the ageing body can bring.
- gain a better understanding of the impact of ageing on self-esteem, and looks at how we can promote wellbeing through effective communication.
